NL MELAMINE, LM SATIN LAMINATES, AM ARMOUR

1-For a correct idea of the colour shade, check the physical samples. The samples of the wood, lacquer and marble finishes must be considered as purely indicative. Any elements ordered in these materials may be subject to natural, inevitable differences in shade and veining compared to the sample you have.

2- Even when they are of the same colour (e.g. white) different materials and different finishes, when used together, may be different shades.

3-The tone and colour of all materials and relative surface treatments will alter over time. This is due to light, natural ageing and any other factors occurring in the room: it must be accepted that any extra pieces added may not be a perfect match.
